

Italian style

Long Island's most popular cuisine is Italian, and it's here in styles casual to formal, kitchens North to South. Here are three choices with contemporary appeal.

NONNINA

This busy Italian bistro near the Robert Moses Causeway offers a modern setting and flavorful dishes, such as ricotta cavatelli Bolognese, bucatini all'Amatriciana, chicken scarpariello, shrimp oreganata and starters that include good pizzas, cheeses and cured meats. $$-$$$
